In 2008, Jennifer Geoghegan, M.D. and Tom BoBo, Jr. moved from Texas into their home in McDowell Mountain Ranch's Discovery Canyon, then a few years later moved to their current home in the One Hundred Hills subdivision. It was a homecoming since BoBo had been born here and Geoghegan had first moved here when she was in third grade.

Geoghegan, a board certified plastic and reconstructive surgeon and the owner of Oasis Plastic Surgery, had gone to undergraduate school and medical school at the University of Arizona. The couple then moved to Texas so Geoghegan could attend the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston for her residency.

When she was finished, the pair, who met at the University of Arizona in 1993 and married in 1999, knew that they wanted to return to Arizona.

Setting Down Roots and Being Business Owners

"We both grew up here and both of our families are still in Arizona, and many friends are still here, as well," Geoghegan explains. "We wanted to start our companies/practices near to our family and friends. Also, we enjoy doing many outdoor activities such as hiking, biking, skiing and swimming, and Arizona has so many options for these nearly year-round."

BoBo also has his own company, Split Engineering, which he launched after completing his master's degree at the University of Arizona. This year marks the company's 20th year in business.

For Geoghegan, becoming a surgeon was a lifelong dream.

"I have wanted to be a physician for as long as I can remember—it has been a goal since childhood," she shares. "I love plastic and reconstructive surgery because of the variety. I can help women as they go through breast cancer one day, the next I could do a mommy-makeover, and the next could be someone who has lost a significant amount of weight and is looking to remove the excess skin. Or, I can have days where I do minimally invasive procedures such as Botox, fillers or lasers." ...

Geoghegan has become known as a top surgeon in her field, and is a visionary in her practice, employing the latest technology in her field. BoBo shares that his wife is not one to talk about herself or her accomplishments, but in addition to her surgical specialization in breast and body procedures, she was the first female plastic surgeon in Arizona using Vectra XT, the most advanced 3D imaging system for breast and body procedures; miraDry, a safe, clinically proven, FDA-approved technology for permanent reduction in underarm sweat, odor and hair; and, for reconstructive surgery, was the first doctor in Arizona to use the AeroForm Tissue Expander, a new needle-free patient-controlled tissue expansion device for women who have had mastectomies. She is also the first female plastic surgeon in Arizona, and among the first in the country, to offer the BodyTite and FaceTite minimally invasive procedures, using patented radiofrequency assisted liposuction (RFAL™) technology for effective body contouring and significant skin contraction.

A Growing Family

In addition to growing their respective careers, the couple also expanded their family, welcoming twin boys, Aiden and Ryder, in 2014.

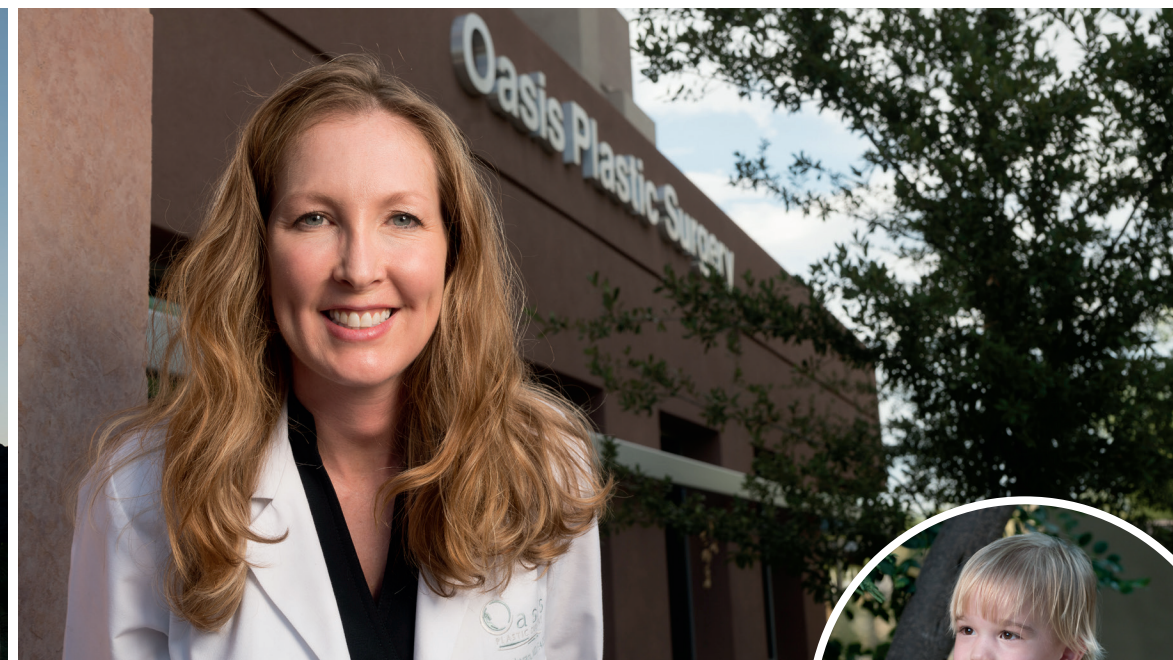

Geoghegan describes them as “quint-essential boys” and says that “Watching them learn and grow is amazing—they truly are little sponges. They change and learn so quickly. It is great to contribute to this by teaching and guiding them.”

Juggling busy work lives with parenting is never easy, and the couple credits their nanny, KK, and nearby family for helping make it all seamless.

Relaxing, Hobbies and Favorite Locales

“Hiking is at our doorstep, and that is one of the reasons why we chose to live in McDowell Mountain Ranch,” says Geoghegan, who also enjoys trail running.

As a family, they also enjoy backyard barbecues and spending time in their pool.

“We also take the boys to McDowell Mountain Ranch Golf Club for dinner and let them run around the green grass and watch the beautiful sunsets.”
